FOR HIM; CERMAK RESTS EASILY; WOMAN SINKINGEXTORTIONIST, TRAPPED BY A
GIRL, SUICIDEDNurse Maid In a Kansas
City Banker's Home
Outwits Bandit

Kansas City, Feb. 16—(AP)—Outwitted by a 19-year-old nurse maid from the Ozarks and the wife of the banker whose home he had invaded, an extortionist took his life as police cornered him in the home of R. Crosby Kemper.

The extortionist, identified by police as K. W. Lattin, 34, unemployed son of a rooming house proprietor here, voiced threats of death against Mrs. Kemper, Ann Wilde, the nurse maid; and Mrs. Kemper's 9-year-old daughter, Sally Ann.

Saying he wanted $15,000, terrorized the household, which included three other women, all servants. Before firing a bullet through his head in an upstairs nursery as police closed in on him, Lattin picked up a Christmas card which had been sent to Sally Ann and upon it scribbled:

"Goodbye mother. I can't stand to see you starve."

The extortionist's plot to summon home Kemper, president of the City Bank & Trust Company, and the money from him failed when the nursemaid, ordered upstairs by the gunman, locked herself in a bedroom with the child and telephoned police.

Previously she had been forced to call the bank and leave word for Kemper his daughter was ill.

Mrs. Kemper's calmness quieted the gunman until officers arrived. "You'll get your money all right," she said, "but don't worry about it."

Brushing past her, the police drew one shot from Lattin, who fled upstairs to end his life.

HOOVER TO ASK
LEGISLATION TO AID MICH. BANKSWhile Limited Withdrawals Of Funds
Are Allowed

Detroit, Feb. 16—(AP)—Some of Detroit's millions of "money in banks" becomes "money in pocket-books" today for the first time since last Saturday noon.

Added encouragement to citizens hard pressed for cash because of the eight day bank holiday proclaimed by Governor William A. Comstock last Tuesday morning came in the announcement that President Hoover would ask Congress to enact emergency legislation which would relieve the banking situation in Michigan.

Executives of Detroit banks said they received that assurance in telephone conversations with the President and Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, during a conference here late yesterday.

All but one of Detroit's banks were reopening today, but permitting only emergency withdrawals. The maximum any depositor may withdraw until the end of the extraordinary "holiday" next Tuesday is five per cent of his balance.

The aggregate thus made available, however, is estimated at $25,000,000 in Detroit alone. Many times that amount is on hand. The Detroit Federal Reserve Bank has received $40,000,000 in recent days from New York and Chicago.

Many outstate banks were remaining closed, or opening only to furnish change and perform similar services without permitting withdrawals. Scores of those banks have heavy deposits in Detroit, institutions and they, like any other depositors, can withdraw only five per cent.

Local Oil Station
Attendant Held Up

Two unmasked men, both flourishing revolvers, walked into the Standard Oil Co. service station on Ravine avenue and East River street about 7:30 last evening, ordered the attendant, Emerson Rorer into the rest room, then ransacked the safe. Rorer was reading a paper when the strangers entered and after emptying his cash belt, ordered him into the rest room then proceeded to rifle the safe. About $20 was reported to have been taken.

Rorer notified the police and furnished a good description of the pair which was said to tally with the two bandits who have appeared in previous gas station holdups this winter. Both of the men were said to have worn caps, one wearing an overcoat and the other a leather jacket.

'DRAKE ESTATE'
PROMOTER HELD
BY GOVERNMENTOscart Hartzell Is Placed Under Arrest As He Reaches America

New York, Feb. 16—(AP)—Oscar Merrill Hartzell, deported from England as an undesirable alien, was arrested at Quarantine on a mail fraud charge as he arrived today on the liner Champlain.

A reception committee consisting of a District Attorney, three Post Office inspectors and a Deputy United States Marshal rode down the bay to meet Hartzell and serve a warrant which charged him with using the mails to defraud and conspiracy.

The officers found him in the Chief Purser's office, where he was virtually being detained. He had been accompanied across the ocean by G. W. Ray of Birmingham, Ala., who is Vice Consul for the United States in London.

Hartzell was taken from the boat to the Federal Building to be arraigned before United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill who signed the warrant for his arrest.

Claims To Be O. K.

On the boat Hartzell refused to give an interview but Assistant United States Attorney Alvin Sylvester quoted him as saying that "everything is one hundred per cent above board."

Hartzell is accused of collecting more than $1,000,000 from persons in the middle west by describing himself as the rightful heir to an alleged mythical estate of Sir Francis Drake, the estate amounting, according to Hartzell's description, to more than $22,500,000. Post Office inspectors said that he promised to return the money of the investors a thousand fold.

Sylvester said that he asked him about the "estate" and that Hartzell replied: "The estate is one hundred per cent okay and I will prove it."

GARNER WOULD HAVE BECOME
NEW PRESIDENTLame Duck Amendment Would Have Provided Successor

Washington, Feb. 16—(AP)—Under the terms of the twentieth amendment to the Constitution Speaker John N. Garner, Vice President-elect, would have been elevated to the presidency had Franklin D. Roosevelt been felled by an assassin.

This amendment, commonly known as the "lame duck," became a part of the Constitution last month when the 36th state ratified. It eliminates the short term of Congress.

Prior to the amendment's adoption there was no definite provision for the selection of a successor to the President-elect. However, under the laws it would have been possible for the House of Representatives to have chosen a President.

The Electoral College, which met the first Wednesday in January, expired after its ballots were cast for Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner. Last Wednesday the House and Senate in joint session officially polled these votes.

It was to cope with such an emergency as might have arisen last night that suitable provisions were written into the "lame duck" amendment. They were sponsored by Representative Ramseyer (R. Iowa) who contended that in the event of the death of the President-elect there would be no "incoming head of the government."

It was contended at the time that the Vice President-elect under the Constitution could not become the President until after he had taken the oath of office as Vice President.

CLEANER ADMITS
THROWING GIRL
ONTO RIVER ICEMysterious Death Of Moline Girl Has Been Solved

Rock Island, Ill., Feb. 16—(AP)—Maurice Meyer, 25, has admitted to Sheriff Fred Schleuter that on December 21, he threw Miss Rose Gendler, 22, from the Moline bridge over Rock river to the ice after he had bound and gagged the girl and trussed the body in a large burlap sack at a cleaning establishment in Moline in which he was interested.

Meyer told the Sheriff he bound and trussed the girl after she had fallen in the alley striking her head and becoming unconscious. He had taken the girl inside the establishment, but was unable to revive her, according to authorities. Becoming panicky, Meyer said when he could not revive the girl he tied her up without knowing whether she was dead or alive and carried her to his truck and drove to the bridge where he dumped the body into the river.

Meyer also admitted, the Sheriff said, that he prepared a fake ransom note which he placed in the door at the home of the girl's step-father and her mother, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mark, in an effort to throw authorities off the track.

Shoemakers Ask
Public Support

Employees of the Dixon plant of the Brown Shoe Company have been furnished with cards which are being passed out to business houses throughout the city, urging the purchase of footwear manufactured by the Brown Shoe Company or the Central Shoe Company. The plan is said to have been adopted by the Brown company, following a talk before the Dixon city council two weeks ago when Commissioner John H. Loftus stressed the importance of patronizing local industries and home merchants. The card bears the trade mark of the Brown and Central companies, both of which are controlled by the former and is as follows:

"I am able to make this purchase because I am on the payroll of the Brown Shoe Company. I trust you will return the favor by asking for shoes made by my company when you, your family or your employees need their next shoes. Brown Shoe company also makes the shoes sold by the Central Shoe company and when you buy either brand, you help me to continue my purchases from you."

Roosevelt Prefers
Minimum Of Guards

Washington, Feb. 16—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt spent four years as Governor of New York with a minimum of police protection. He preferred it.

Until his presidential candidacy last summer changed the order of things, a lone trooper or New York City detective satisfied Mr. Roosevelt's idea of a bodyguard.

But when the election was over three Secret Service men were detailed to him. When he enters the White House nearly a dozen will be on hand.

Associates here recalled today that with the exception of Mr. Roosevelt's official travels about New York state as Governor—involving his appearance before large crowds—or in the hours preceding the execution of condemned men to whom executive clemency had been denied, unusual precautions to guard his life were rarely taken.

INCREASE GUARD

Given News

Washington, Feb. 16—(AP)—President Hoover, shocked by the attempt upon the life of Franklin D. Roosevelt, his successor-elect, today found a doubly alert guard of Secret Service agents watching over his own safety.

Acting upon their own initiative White House Secret Service guards threw extra precautions around the Chief Executive even before word of the Miami shooting was relayed to him. This added watch was continued today as Mr. Hoover received by his own request more details of the attempted assassination.

"I am deeply shocked at the news. It is a dastardly act." These were the words of the President as he and members of the White House family were awakened last night by the startling report from the south.

Guard Bedroom

A Secret Service guard was posted not far from the President's bedroom door throughout the night. Two uniformed patrolmen, wearing the gold badge of the White House detail, paced back and forth before the front door of the mansion. Another officer stood inside.

Even after the huge iron grilles of the White House grounds clanged shut at mid-night there was no relaxing of the guard. Additional patrolmen kept minute watch over the south grounds at the rear of the house.

Richard Jervis, chief of the White House Secret Service detail was informed of the assassination attempt even before the Chief Executive. Immediately he gave out orders for the redoubled watchfulness.

Wires Roosevelt

The President left his bed to express his feeling over the attempted assassination of his successor-elect, and the shooting of five bystanders at Miami.

In staccato fashion, he spoke through a secretary:

"I am deeply shocked at the news. It is a dastardly act."

With hardly a pause he dictated to Theodore Joslin, one of his aides, a message to the President-elect. It follows:

"Together with every citizen I rejoice that you have not been injured."

"I shall be grateful to you for news of Mayor Cermak's condition."

Fled In 1921

Xenia, Ill., Feb. 16—(AP)—The death under an assumed name in Mexico, of Asher R. Cox, bank president who fled from here in 1921, just before a $193,169 shortage was discovered in his bank's accounts, has been revealed through the allowance by the Modern Woodmen of America of a $2,000 insurance claim to Cox's widow.

The banker, known as the "Father of Xenia" disappeared from here soon after a law had been passed in Illinois to abolish private banks, and which would have necessitated reorganization of the Orchard City Bank of Xenia, of which Cox was president. After he had fled, only $6,000 in Liberty Bonds was found in the bank vaults.

While the Modern Woodmen has approved the insurance claim of Cox's widow, Mrs. Emma Flinty Cox, of Elgin, Ill., actual payment has been deferred pending posting of bond required in such cases.

To Safety

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 16—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President-elect, today was escorted by a policeman out of the way of an on-coming string of railroad cars that had come within 20 feet of her at the Lehigh valley station, shortly after her arrival here this morning.

She had just alighted from her special train and was standing on one of the tracks, with members of his party and with Mayor Herman Bergholz and Miss Flora Rose, director of Cornell University's College of Home Economics.

Neither Mrs. Roosevelt or any of the other members of the party noticed the string of cars being backed in their direction until Motorcycle Policeman Edward J. Moore took her arm and moved her off the tracks.

She gave expression to a fatalistic attitude in regard to her husband's escape from an assassin's bullets at Miami last night.

"If they want to get you they can," she said, "and so the only thing to do is just to go along and not think about such things any more than you have to."

WITNESS TELLS OF ATTEMPT ON NEXT PRESIDENTRex Saffer Writes His Story For Associated Press Today

By REX SAFFER
Miami, Fla., Feb. 16—(AP)—I thought it was all a part of the celebration, with some fool firing blank cartridges, when a pistol sounded sharply behind my ear last night as I followed President-elect Roosevelt.

Only when Mayor Cermak of Chicago slumped down before me did I realize that my shoulder was being used by an assassin to steady his aim for an attack upon the next President of the United States.

About the same time I got wise to this, the tumult broke. Men and women screamed and shouted. "Kill him! Stop him! Don't let him hit Mr. Roosevelt!" were among the cries I remember. Turning about I saw two men bearing down on a little, swarthy, stocky built man. They certainly man-handled him. I didn't realize for the moment that anyone else but my old friend Tony Cermak had been hit.

I was near Mr. Roosevelt's car and, of course, my first thought was of him. Getting near I heard him say: "Tell them I am all right." I knew he had not been hit. Then it was a question of getting to the telephone. I did and I got called plenty of names for hanging on to it.

There was blood on the street as I jumped past the scene of carnage for the phone. It was the blood of Tony Cermak and Mrs. Gill.

The whole thing happened so quickly I don't think any of us realized for a moment what was occurring. Mr. Roosevelt was among the calmest there. He had a deep expression of agony on his face. It was not fear for himself. It was utter sorrow at the unfortunate fate of his friends.

As near as I could see, the little man, Giuseppe Zangara, was standing on a bench about 25 feet away from the Roosevelt car.

He was almost stripped of clothing when the police pulled him away and shackled him to a car.

BULLETIN
Miami, Fla., Feb. 16—(AP)—The following bulletin on Mayor Cermak's condition was issued at the hospital at 11 A. M. CST:

"Mayor Cermak is resting much easier, has slept part of the morning (pulse 98, temperature 99, respiration 14) no unfavorable developments have arisen to the present time."

The bullet which struck the Mayor down, physicians said, traversed the diaphragm and margin of the liver and lodged in the eleventh dorsal vertebra.

Enroute with President-elect Roosevelt to New York, Feb. 16—(AP)—Traveling away from Miami, the scene of his attempted assassination, President-elect Roosevelt today sent the following message he had promised to President Hoover about the condition of the victims who got his shots:

"Have just visited hospital and seen the patients. The mayor had a fair night as did Mrs. Gill. The other three are on rapid road to recovery."

Talking over the incident with members of his party on the train, Mr. Roosevelt said he found "Tony Cermak still talking business at the hospital today and very concerned about the pay for the school teachers."

The President-elect seemed unconcerned about himself and the five shots fired at him. He was deeply grieved about the five persons who received the shots.

Professor Raymond Moley, war debt expert, accompanied Mr. Roosevelt on the train northward.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16—(AP)—Solemn and intent, President-elect Roosevelt called by the Jackson Memorial hospital here today to say good-bye and to encourage the five victims of the assassin who sought his life last night.

Immediately after concluding his hospital visit, he left for the north by train, making his departure at 9 A. M. (CST).

He found Mayor Cermak of Chicago, one of the wounded, in a very critical condition. Mrs. Joe Gill of Miami, was fast losing ground. She underwent a blood transfusion just before Mr. Roosevelt arrived. The others were declared on the road to recovery.

The diminutive hater of government officials, Giuseppe Zangara, who fired into the crowd about Mr. Roosevelt's car last night remained in police care high up in the Dade county jail just across the street from the train Mr. Roosevelt boarded to go to New York.

Hoover's Doctor Called
Dr. Joel T. Boone, physician of President Hoover, called by telephone while the President-elect was at the hospital. Marvin McIntyre, the Roosevelt secretary, gave him a report.

Entering the room of Mayor Cermak, the President-elect said: "You are looking fine. The first thing you know you will be back on your feet."

Cermak in a faint voice replied: "I hope so. I hope it will be in time for the inauguration. Before you came I visited here with Jim Farley and Mac and we had a good time."

Had Extra Guards
Mr. Roosevelt left the yacht of Vincent Astor shortly after 8 o'clock and proceeded by motor to the hospital on the outskirts of the city. He rode in the front seat with the chauffeur. Vincent Astor accompanied him. An extra detail of police and Secret Service men surrounded Roosevelt at every turn.

Returning to the train immediately across the street from the jail holding Zangara, Roosevelt was greeted by a huge throng which cheered him. Upon reaching the back platform he turned, took off his hat, and waved a response to the greeting. Three Secret Service men were immediately about him.

Police were still holding Andrea Valenti, arrested on suspicion last night because he resided at the same place with Zangara, although police indicated they did not think he was connected with the incident.

Blood Transfusion
A blood transfusion was performed on Mrs. Gill of Miami, shot in abdomen.

Miss Margaret Krulis of Newark, N. J., shot in hand.
William Sinnott, New York policeman, shot in head.
Russell Caldwell of Miami, shot in head.
Confusion prevailed for a few minutes as the crowd milled about. Secret Service men and police pounced on the gunman. Women screamed.
Looking back from his car, Roosevelt waited for Cermak to be lifted in his car, waved reassuringly to the crowd and told those near: "Tell them I am all right."

Issued Statement
Returning to the yacht from which he had just landed from a fishing cruise, the President-elect early today issued the following

Assassin Shows
No Regret; Held
In Miami Prison

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16—(AP)—Giuseppe Zangara, his bulging eyes d-dating as he talked with severe interrogators high up in the Dade county jail, today said he had no regrets for his attack on President-elect Roosevelt.

Speaking in broken English, the prisoner answered questions readily. Sheriff Hardie, something of a linguist, helped carry the conversation. Here is Hardie's account of the examination.

"Why do you want to kill? Did you want to kill the policeman who caught you?"

"I no care to kill police," he replied. "They work for leaving. As a man I like Meester Roosevelt. As a President I want to keel him. I want to keel all President. In Italy ten years ago, I want to keel the King, but I cannot get to hem."

"Are you an anarchist?"

"Is Not An Anarchist
"I do not belong to any society. I am not an anarchist. Sometimes I get big pain in the stomach too, and then I want to keel these Presidents who oppress the working men."

There is a deep scar on the abdomen of the assassin. He speaks to the officers without apparent realization of what he did. Occasionally he grows bitter.

He said he came to Miami two months ago, "because they tell me it will help these pains in my stomach."

He has been in America for about nine years and is understood to be a naturalized citizen.

He is caged in a little steel barred cell 21 floors above the ground in the Dade county jail.

ed on Mrs. Gill just before the President-elect reached the hospital in a desperate attempt to save her life and physicians said they were losing hope for her recovery.

Physicians also said they were becoming very concerned over the condition of Mayor Cermak and were watching his heart action closely, still fearful of performing an operation to remove the bullet he received in his back.

Meanwhile, the assassin, assured and defiant, told his police questioners he had no regrets for his attempt to assassinate the President-elect. The penalty for attempted assassination in Florida is life imprisonment and that for assassination is death.

With an old-fashioned .32 calibre pistol Zangara, shot wildly into the crowd gathered about the automobile of Mr. Roosevelt in the picturesque Bay Front park just as the next President had concluded a brief speech.

Cermak Badly Wounded
Mayor Cermak, standing just behind the Roosevelt car, was among the first hit. A bullet lodged in his abdomen, physicians reported he had a little better than a fifty-fifty chance to live.

Shocked and startled by the gun play, Mr. Roosevelt waited to pick up the Chicago Mayor, and sped to the hospital with him. He remained there to visit the other victims and cancelled his train departure for New Stomach Bloating, Rheumatism Nearly Crippled Her; Gly-Cas Gives Surprising Results.

MRS. MABEL POWELSON
"Gly-Cas has meant everything to me," said Mrs. Mabel Powelson, 401 May St., Marshalltown, Iowa. "Muscular rheumatism in my shoulders and arms nearly crippled me for the past two years, pains were so intense, hardly dress or undress myself. My stomach was terribly disordered too, bloated badly, gas pains nearly killed me at times, constipated continually. I was almost in despair, tried many remedies without results. But now, in less than a month Gly-Cas has given me the results I had been needing for years. By stomach and bowels are regulated, no more gas pains, rheumatism practically left me entirely and I am enjoying good health again. After what Gly-Cas has done for me I feel sure it will give all sufferers like results."

Gly-Cas is sold by Campbell's White Cross Pharmacy, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.—Adv.

Capital Pawnbrokers Being Questioned

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Maurice and Dave Fishman, pawnshop operators, were questioned by postal authorities today in connection with the sale of bonds taken in the $500,000 mail robbery in Chicago December 6.

They were taken in custody by detectives as they were leaving their place of business.

William Golden, Chicago, arrested Saturday after he sold an alleged stolen bond to a local broker, had a Fishman pawn ticket in his possession at the time.

While en route to the federal building for questioning he is reported to have pulled the ticket from his pocket and tore from it the amount of money involved. This part of the ticket he stuffed in his mouth and swallowed.

Federal authorities refused to allow the Fishman brothers to confer with relatives or attorneys.

Senate Adopts Repeal Measure This Afternoon

Washington, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Senate today adopted the Blaine resolution for repeal of the prohibition amendment, with protection for dry states from liquor importations, ratification to be by state conventions.

It now goes to the House.

Only this morning Speaker Gagner predicted that if the resolution were adopted by the Senate in the form that it finally was, it would be approved by the House under suspension of the rules on Monday.

The Senate vote on the thirteen year old 18th Amendment was marked by tension, the floor being crowded by members of the House of Representatives who stood behind the many Senators seated so quietly in their chairs answering their names.

Home Of Priest In Benld Was Bombed

Benld, Ill., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Macon county court officers were searching today for several men in a green automobile who bombed the rectory occupied by the Rev. John Goff, Roman Catholic priest, injuring him slightly.

The priest was sleeping in an upstairs room of the rectory yesterday when the men drove past in the green car and threw a bomb at the window of his room. The explosion wrecked a part of the house, rendering the priest unconscious, and broke windows of neighboring houses. The Rev. Mr. Goff was not seriously injured, and he went to Springfield today to confer with the Bishop of his diocese about the affair.

A part of a fuse was found near the house and mine union officers said it was not of the type used in coal mining. It appeared that the men were familiar with the habits of the priest as he formerly slept downstairs but several night ago changed his sleeping quarters to an upstairs room.

OTHERS WOUNDED BY CRAZED MAN AT MIAMI, FLA.

"I am deeply moved by the serious injuries inflicted upon my friends tonight and I am remaining in Miami to learn in the morning of their condition. I am entirely unharmed."

President Hoover immediately communicated with Mr. Roosevelt by wire. He said:

"Together with every citizen I rejoice that you have not been injured. I shall be grateful to you for news of Mayor Cermak's condition."

The President-elect replied:

"I deeply appreciate your message. Mayor Cermak is resting but his condition is still serious. I will wire you in the morning after I have been to the hospital."

Told Weird Story
Gruesome examination of the swarthy, complexioned, stocky-built assassin by Secret Service men and Miami officials brought out a disconnected, weird story.

According to their account Zangara purchased his pistol in a pawn shop here three days ago for $8. He told them he intended to kill President Hoover, but when he read that Mr. Roosevelt was coming here he decided to give attention to him.

Newspaper clippings found on Zangara reported the movements of Mr. Roosevelt and police said one of the clippings told the story of the assassination of President McKinley.

Intended To Kill
Asked if he intended to kill Roosevelt, police said he replied:

"Yes, and I am sorry I didn't. I would kill all presidents and all officers. I like Roosevelt personally but I don't like presidents."

Police also said that Zangara told them that he had wanted to kill the king of Italy but he had never had a chance while in that country. He was said to have lost $200 recently at the dog races. A postal savings account book on him indicated he had about $850 in the bank.

Intimate friends of Mr. Roosevelt stood about his car for the brief speech he made as he motored from the yacht to the train. They included Robert Gore of Chicago, Marvin McIntyre, secretary to Roosevelt, and Representative-elect Wilcox of this district.

The next President had just spoken a few words into the microphone from his automobile. Sitting down beside Mayor Gautier of Miami, he turned to talk with him when the firing started about 25 feet away.

Woman Grabbed Gunman
It was a woman, Mrs. W. F. Cross of Miami, who grabbed at the arm of the assassin. James Galloway of Miami Beach, joined her. George Broadnax, a Secret Service operative, pounced on the shooter. Police joined with the departure of Roosevelt and the hurried carrying away of the assassin, order was quickly restored.

Mayor Cermak sagged to the pavement. Mrs. Gail also fell. The victims appeared stunned. It was the bystanders who did the shouting and screaming. Newspapers and photographers were gathered close to the car. It was over the shoulder of Rex Saffer, correspondent of the Associated Press Bureau in Miami, that the shooter had fired.

Woman's Account
Mrs. Cross gave the following account:

"When the President-elect stood up to make his speech so many stood up in front of me that I couldn't see. So I stood up with me and the bench almost folded up I looked around. Then I saw he had a pistol and he began shooting toward the President-elect. I grabbed his hand which held the pistol and pushed it up in the air and he called for help. Tom Armour also grabbed his hand and he held it up in the air so he couldn't shoot any more. By that time some men were choking him."

Joe Murphy, Assistant Chief of the United States Secret Service, was on the scene. He took over the investigation that has resulted so far in the detention of the one other man.

Prof. Raymond Moley, economic adviser to Mr. Roosevelt, and Judge Fredric Kernahan of New York City, who was on the southern seas vacation cruise with him, went to the Dade county jail here and interviewed the prisoner. Zangara was placed in the regular jail quarters, 21 floors above the ground in the county building.

Crowd at Station
A huge crowd waited at the station for more than an hour to see Mr. Roosevelt, but it was dispersed quietly when the word was received that he was not leaving until today.

Miami citizens were sad and outraged at the attack made on the President-elect in their city but they were complete order.

Police details were doubled and every precaution exercised. So strong was the detail that some of the press members of the Roosevelt party were temporarily arrested when they sought to get back to the Roosevelt train.

The hospital where the victims were taken was besieged by relatives and friends. The telephone switchboard was plugged up most of the night with calls. Telegrams poured in by the hundreds. Capt. James Reidy, in charge of the Secret Service detail with Roosevelt, remained with the President-elect throughout the night. He and Al Towless, another Secret Service man, were standing on the running board of the Roosevelt car when the firing occurred.

The President-elect was calm throughout the incident. He went to bed aboard the Vincent Astor yacht tied to a dock here early today. He was deeply affected, however, by the wounding of his friends.

Police indicated today after lengthy examination of Valenti, who was taken into custody on suspicion, that they did not believe him identified in any way with the attack made by Zangara on President-elect Roosevelt. He was held temporarily in custody but the conviction grew that it was a one man job.

THE CROSSFIRE ON THE TAXPAYER.

When the 48 governors meet with Mr. Roosevelt at the White House after the inauguration, they will underline once more the woes that descend upon the head of the tax-gatherer in a depression.

There are many things for the governors and the president to discuss, but one of the most important, undoubtedly, is the matter of overlapping state and federal taxes.

Ordinarily, the state government dives into one of John Citizen's pockets for its money and the federal government dives into the other. But in the last few years they have shown a tendency to dive together into the same pocket. The House Ways and Means Committee has discovered 326 duplications between state and federal taxes, and now that times are bad these duplications are beginning to pinch.

When you buy gasoline, for instance, you pay a state tax and a federal tax. When you buy cigarettes you pay a federal tax, and in 13 states you also pay a state tax. The federal government taxes theater tickets, bond and stock issues, tickets to boxing matches, and so on; many state governments do likewise.

The result is that the citizen gets hit twice in the same place. The indirect tax, whose great virtue it is that the taxpayer can't feel it, can be felt plainly when this happens.

And yet it is a whole lot easier to say, "Let's end all of this duplication," than it is to do it. Our various governments are up against a problem of monumental proportions.

It is imperative that they reduce taxes substantially. It is also imperative that they spend a lot of money on projects to take care of the jobless and help bring the depression to an end. These two imperatives clash head-on in a way that would make Solomon himself grow gray-haired trying to end a solution.

What's the answer? That is what the president and the governors have got to figure out; and it is a safe bet that they are going to feel older, wiser and wearier before they get the job done.

MEDICINE'S UNSUNG HEROES.

Last September Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of the senator from Idaho, was very sick with that mysterious disease, psittacosis. Dr. Charles Armstrong of the U. S. Public Health Service had studied the disease extensively, and had himself contracted it in the process. Blood from his veins was made into a serum, and this serum enabled Mrs. Borah to recover.

So, the other day, Mrs. Borah went to Dr. Armstrong's office to thank him for saving her life.

Here was a charming gesture on the part of a gracious lady; and, when you stop to think about it, it is a gesture that most of us seldom dream of making. Some microbes set their teeth in our tissues, and medical science exterminates them, and we recover—but do we ever think of thanking the heroic and devoted scientists who made our recovery possible? It happens so seldom that when someone like Mrs. Borah does it the event is news.

HOBSON REWARDED—AT LAST!

In the early summer of 1898, while an American battle squadron cruised off the harbor of Santiago, Cuba, bottling up a Spanish squadron that lay within a heroic attempt was made to block the narrow harbor mouth by sinking an old collier there, so that the Spaniards' last chance of getting out would be foiled. The job was entrusted to a young lieutenant, Richmond P. Hobson, who carried out his mission with dazzling heroism. That it failed was no fault of his; he wrote his name high among the navy's list of heroes.

And the other day, nearly 35 years after the event, Congress voted him a Congressional Medal of Honor!

The award was richly deserved, of course. But why, do you suppose, did it take Congress so long to get around to giving it to him?

We should get nowhere in science or engineering if problems were handled in the manner in which economic problems have always been handled.—H. C. Dickinson, president of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

When overproduction has brought on us a tremendous economic crisis, isn't it hypocritical to thank God for the abundance?—The Rev. Charles Francis Potter, New York clergyman and author.

"I have steadily discouraged our people in the field from talking about what is the public opinion (on prohibition) or what the newspapers are saying. I think it introduces a false element in my thinking.—Amos W. W. Woodcock, head of the U. S. Prohibition Bureau.

Unless the Democratic party recognizes that new economic conditions exist in the world today and that we must take a somewhat different attitude on the tariff, we are headed for difficulties.—U. S. Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem., Mont.).

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"My goodness," shouted Scouty, "we're just as clumsy as can be. We've ruined this fine ant hill. Now, what are we going to do?"

"We never should have landed here. We'll have some trouble now. I fear. We really ought to fix the ant hill until it looks like new."

A big ant then spoke up and said, "A good idea! Go ahead. The hill you messed up is my home. Look! It's in ruins, now. 'It won't take long to fix it right. If you will work with all your might. Just tell me that you're willing and I'll gladly show you how."

"Of course we are," said Copy. "You can rest assured that's what we'll do. Bring on some little shovels and we'll pile the sand up high."

"On you've played a real mean trick. Before we're through, it will look slick. We always do a real good job on anything we try."

"Oh, shovels will not be enough."

"I'll run and get a lot of stuff," replied the ant. "Just wait right here. It will not take me long."

The Twymanites waited for a while. Then each one broke out in a smile. The ant dragged wood and hammer. My it surely was real strong.

"First, build a scaffold 'round the hill and from it we can quickly fill in all the sand that spread around," the little ant friend cried. "All right, get busy!" Scouty roared. "Here, someone help me lift this board. We'll make the scaffold safe by putting planks down, side by side."

It was funny sight to see the whole bunch working merrily. The scaffold soon was in the air. Then sand was piled up high. It wasn't very long until the ant cried, "Stop work on the hill. If we build it much higher, it will bump into the sky."

(Scouty meets a fiddler ant in the next story.)

Illinois' other hero is Gen. James Shields.

Where Frances Willard is considered so decidedly an Illinois citizen that nobody has much trouble placing her, the general puts capital authorities in something of a quandary as to his exact citizenship status, inasmuch as he was born in Ireland, died in Iowa, was interred in Missouri, and served as U. S. Senator from Illinois, Minnesota and Missouri.

The general also served as governor of the Oregon territory, was an Illinois state auditor, an Illinois supreme court justice, an army officer in two or three wars, and a representative to the national house from two states. Shields sometimes had trouble getting seated from the various states from which he was elected to the U. S. Senate.

Upon his election from Illinois, the senate seated him, then questioned his citizenship and unseated him. Shields went back to Illinois, was immediately re-elected, and came right back to Washington and took his seat without further trouble.

After his term expired, he tried for reelection, but failed.

With that he moved to the territory of Minnesota, and was there when the state was admitted to the union. He was promptly elected to the U. S. Senate, was seated, but again defeated when he tried for reelection.

Then he moved to California, and promptly went off to another war. Upon his return, he moved into Missouri and tried to settle down to the practice of law, but Senator Lewis V. Boye died, and so Missouri sent Shields back to the Senate. That term was only 36 days long, and the general, remembering the other two reelection failures, flatly refused to be a candidate again.

The general lived only four months longer, dying at the age of 69 years after serving in more different states, than probably any other Illinois character including the colorful Senator J. Hamilton Lewis who certainly hasn't done so bad.

Income Taxes Explained By Commissioner

EXEMPTION ALLOWED HEAD OF A FAMILY

A head of a family is defined by income-tax regulations as "an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more persons who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage, or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation." The exemption allowed a head of a family is $2,500. The phrase "in one household" may be interpreted as meaning the taxpayer's personal residence, an apartment, rooms in a boarding house, hotel, etc.

Under certain circumstances it is not necessary that the taxpayer and his dependents live under one roof during the entire taxable year in order that the taxpayer may claim the exemption. If the common home being maintained, the parent is away on business, or a child away at school or on a visit, the exemption is allowed. Moreover, if a parent is obliged to maintain his dependent children with relatives or in a boarding house, while he lives elsewhere, the exemption still applies. If, however, without necessity, the dependent makes his home elsewhere, the benefactor is not the head of a family.

The same ruling applies to husband and wife "living together." If occasionally and temporarily the husband is away on business or the wife on a visit, the common home being maintained, the $2,500 exemption still applies. The unavoidable absence of husband or wife at a sanatorium does not preclude the exemption. But if the husband continuously makes his home at one place and the wife at another, they are not living together within the meaning of the revenue act.

Daily Health Talk

STARTING STOPPED HEARTS

The idea of bringing the dead back to life is an extremely appealing one.

If the term dead is used in its absolute sense, then it can be said with no uncertainty that the revival of such an individual is unknown to science, but if by dead is meant merely a suspension of animation, then revival is possible and many such instances are on record.

The suspension of animation as seen in the cessation of the beating of the heart is a fairly common occurrence in what is known as shock.

In such cases the heart stops beating, though it is essentially normal, and though the individual has not necessarily been exhausted by preceding disease.

Various attempts have been made in these instances to start the stopped heart. Surgeons have massaged the heart during the course of an operation, and various mechanical manipulations, such as squeezing and pinching, have in a certain number of instances started the heart beating again.

About 12 years ago there was developed a method for starting the stopped heart by the injection of epinephrin.

It was found, however, that when the heart was started beating again the prick of the injecting needle as well as the drug were effective.

More recently, an ingenious electrical apparatus, was developed for the resuscitation of the stopped heart. This electrical apparatus consists of a small generator to which are connected electrodes. It produces an electric current with a rhythmic pulsation of from 30 to 120 beats per minute. The electrodes are applied to the heart, which contracts under the stimulation of the generated current.

This apparatus thus temporarily takes the place of what is physiologically known as the pace maker, a structure which is located within the heart musculature and which under normal conditions regulates the normal contractions of the heart.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengue (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "dead" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengue by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic balms, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Jesus Teaching by Parables—

The Growth of the Kingdom

By WILLIAM E. GILROY

Like the last lesson, this one deals with the teaching of Jesus as emphasized in illustrations from everyday life. Jesus was teaching the people concerning the kingdom of God—a deep and difficult topic. There are few things so hard to understand, even in our modern life, as the philosophy of progress, and that is what the kingdom of God in its growth among men implies.

The kingdom of God in the teaching of Jesus was a kingdom of light. So the first thing that Jesus emphasized was that if we would serve the kingdom, we must let our light shine. We are not going to promote the kingdom of God by putting our light under a bushel, or under a bed.

If we have light, even though it be no more light than that of the primitive lamp of the time of Jesus, let that light be displayed, and let the evidence of whatever the kingdom is in our lives serve the cause of the kingdom.

Jesus regarded the kingdom of God as the kingdom of truth, and he likened the growth of truth to the growth of a crop from the seeds. If we would reap the harvest of truth, and thus serve the kingdom of God let us cast our seed abroad, fully trusting that it will do our part, the harvest will come.

Here, also, Jesus reminded us that we must not judge results by the apparent smallness of the effort. He reminded his hearers that though the mustard seed is very small, it produces a very great tree.

Just how much did these who listened to these simple teachings of Jesus derive from them, or understand them? It would appear that even the simple teaching of Jesus was not always understood, because, evidently, those who heard, when they had opportunity, asked him the meaning of the parable and we are also told in our lesson that he expounded all these things privately to his own disciples.

Perhaps we over estimate the extent to which deep and wonderful things can be made simple, but at the same time we should remember that Jesus laid great stress upon the spirit in which one hears and receives "the word," and that understanding depends upon the simplicity and receptiveness with which we approach the teacher.

The mysteries of the teaching of Jesus have often been understood by comparatively unlearned men and women whose hearts have been attuned to love and righteousness, where men with the pride of intellect have delved and discussed, only to make it the more evident that the simple teaching has not taken hold either of their hearts or of their heads.

When a nation knows how to act only after it has received a knockout blow from circumstances, its destiny cannot be a very certain one. A clearer watching of the skies is certainly called for, but how is that to be achieved? It is indeed a problem of large proportion which cannot be solved very easily.

With the state of the world thought as it is at present, nobody but an unmitigated optimist can hope for more than formal declarations on this score at the present time.

The League of Nations may be paving Geneva with good intentions, but it is certainly not paving the way to complete international trust.

Nations still have to thread an individual course in world economics, and until a better exchange of the world's commodities can be secured by mutual understanding, the onus for this situation must be laid on the shoulders of political parties in all nations.

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

In more than one way Clark Shaughnessy, recently brought from Loyola of the South to become Amos Alonzo Stagg's successor at the University of Chicago is stepping into a tough assignment. Chicago for some years past has not had very good football teams. But this was not Mr. Stagg's fault. Every fall at football time a mere handful of young men from here and there would turn out for football. The reason was that the scholastic and entrance requirements at the Midway sent good blacksmiths elsewhere.

The University of Chicago gradually got the reputation of being a place where all the football players wore glasses and studied Piny in the locker room between halves.

ABOUT THE OLD GRADS—

Shaughnessy first faces the problem of material. Then, there are the "C" men, too—the old grads. Athletic Director T. N. Metcalf was a bit brutal to the "C" men in his choice of Shaughnessy for the job. They held a meeting to discuss the matter of selecting a new coach. Mr. Metcalf was sorry he could not be there.

They called him by telephone. He assured them simply that the coach already had been selected. No meeting of old grads could do anything about it. What was his name? Oh, that would be announced in due time.

An hour after the meeting adjourned, the University of Chicago announced that Shaughnessy had been named. The old grads naturally were chagrined. And chagrined in an old grad quickly turns to high dudgeon. The "C" men will be waiting to receive Shaughnessy first with inquisitive anxiety, then with searching analysis. Shaughnessy will be taken apart to see what makes him tick.

They will find Shaughnessy able, prepared to meet them. He happens to be a fellow with ideas.

The Yanks also announced yesterday that Dick Hobitzel, former first baseman of the Boston Red Sox, had been engaged to umpire spring exhibition games, that Scout Paul Kritchell had been assigned to help their Newark "farm" club in his spring training, and that Eddie Wells, southpaw pitcher who had been shifted to Newark, had been ordered to join the Yanks at St. Petersburg, Fla., for another trial.

Pitchers Owen Carroll, recently obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals, and Hollis Thurston today signed on the dotted line with the Brooklyn Dodgers for the 1933 National League campaign.

SAYS IT WITH MUSIC—
Mr. Shaughnessy will bring the "sonata shift" to the Midway, among other things.

"My theory," Shaughnessy said in a recent interview, "is that light, fast players who have brains and use them are better than tons of beef. With split-second timing in perfect rhythm, you can use deception combined with speed which advances the ball farther and faster than all the beef in the world. After all, a light fast player can tackle, tangle up and throw the biggest beef that ever donned a football suit."

When Shaughnessy was a little boy, he was given piano lessons. He lived at Gladstone Minn., some seven miles over the hills from St. Paul. At the age of six, Master Shaughnessy was schooled in such piano stuff as Mozart's Sonata in C Major.

He had the technique and timing then, being a concert performer when he was 10 years old. He took that timing into football!

Ashton 24; Ghouls 20.

In the opening games of the third round of competition of the local Commercial League last night in the northside high school gymnasium the Reynolds, Polo and Ashton fives went into the lead.

The main game of the show resulted in the breaking of the Ghouls' winning streak which had reached five straight. Ashton, previously defeated twice by the Ghouls, turned the trick 24-20. At the finish of the quarter Ashton led 6-3. A big second inning pushed the Ghouls out in front by 13-10 at the half. Then the visiting five came back to hold the Dixonites scoreless in the third period and regained the lead, 16-13. It was close during the next quarter but Ashton managed the four-point order. The losers missed enough free shots to win the game. Moye, league's scoring leader, made two baskets and four free shots for second place.

Jumping into an early lead the Reynolds team took Beiers' Loafers, 30-20. It was 11-4 at the quarter and 16-8 at the half. The Reynolds kept a safe lead of 24-10 at the end of the third quarter. In the closing stanza the Beiers' added ten points to Reynolds' six for the final 30-20. G. Lebre led the scoring with four baskets and a free toss for nine points. Johnson and Vorhis had eight apiece for second place.

Polo was in stride last night and piled up a 40-17 verdict over the Battery Shop. It was the first time in three games that Polo was able to take the Shoppers. Ahead 17-7 at the half the Polo five totalled thirteen points in the third quarter for a 30-11 lead. Gilbert and Reynolds led the walkaway, netting twelve and ten points respectively.

Dixon played two good ball games last week. At Mendota they triumphed 37-23 to run up the highest total of points a local crew has accomplished in ten years. Rock Falls won last Saturday 34-24, but had a tough proposition on hand. The regular lineup: Flanagan, Underwood or Henry forwards, Bellows, center, and Hasselberg and Strong, guards worked both games. Encouraging in the play was the great record of making 21 out of 28 free tosses and the scoring by the two guards.

This pair had failed to offer much assistance to the scoring column in the earlier games but now they are hitting.

Sterling's B team is also undefeated in the North Central campaign. However, Dixon's seconds have accomplished two real upsets on the local floor and may continue and surprise Sterling. DeKalb and Belvidere lost close decisions on the northside court as Dixon came through with a pair of two-point victories.

Two Dixon Boxers Are Among Eight District Champions

Two Dixon boys were crowned district Golden Gloves champions in the finals at Rockford last evening—Ario Soladi in the heavyweight class and Elwood McReynolds in the lightweight division.

Upsets were plentiful throughout the tournament but the biggest upset, to Rockford fans, came in the welterweight finals, when Elwood McReynolds the colored flash from Dixon, won a three-round decision from Bill Celebron, of Rockford, the defending 147 pounder.

Of the eight champions but two carried over from the 1932 championships. Joe Romano, featherweight, and Sammy Fisher, bantamweight, Bruno Galvanoni, who won the lightweight title, was on the 1931 team as was Julius Denny who captured the middleweight honor last night.

It was a great fight card with action galore throughout every bout and it was witnessed by a great fight crowd that practically jammed the Coliseum.

McReynolds and Celebron staged a great fight and it was no disgrace to lose the judges nod in Underwood, f ... 1 0 1 this one. McReynolds fought a dandy fight, displaying superior speed on foot and in throwing punches. Many in the crowd were from Dixon and when McReynolds' hand was raised in victory there was a wild shout of joy from the Dixonites, who had every reason to be proud of their fighter.

Ario Soladi of Dixon, stopped James Pennington of Rockford in the heavyweight final, the curly headed heavyweight concentrated his attack mostly on Pennington's body. Pennington fighting only his second fight of his boxing career, made a very creditable showing, demonstrating that with more experience he is going to make a real fighter.

Julius Denny and Smoke Whitfield staged one of the best fights of the night, the pair standing toe to toe most of the way and exchanging wallop. Whitfield tired in the third round and Denny finished strong to win the decision.

Bruno Galvanoni of Rockford scored up an odd score by stopping Douglas Berkeley of Port Atkinson in the second round. Both punches proved the undoing of L. Miller, c ... 2 0 2 last year's champion. Bruno fought a good battle, showing great improvement over a year ago.

Joe Romano's opponent failed to put in an appearance and Joe won the featherweight title by default. Joe had to fight only once in the tournament.

Sammy Fisher, runner-up in the bantamweight division because of failure to show in time, will make the trio as Royal Neumann of Ft. Atkinson, who won by default, feels that he is too young and inexperienced to go to Chicago.

Hubert de Shepherd won the flyweight honors only after the hardest kind of a fight with Dominick Young. The two staged the greatest fight of the night, a slam-bang battle that had the crowd in an uproar all the way. Young made a great fight of it and pushed Hubert to the limit to win.

DIXON FUTURE FARMERS' CLUB HELD BANQUET

Success Of Projects Of High School Boys Emphasized

By HARRY L. QUICK

Wednesday evening in the Dixon high school cafeteria auditorium was held the Fathers and Sons banquet of the Dixon Chapter of the Future Farmers of America.

Fully a hundred and fifty of the boys, and their fathers and some of their friends, assembled and enjoyed a delightful dinner, served by the girls of the home economics department of the school.

As soon as the meal was finished, and a musical number by the Harmony Boys was enjoyed, the Chapter was opened in form. All business was postponed until next meeting, and Toastmaster Elton Williams was introduced by the president, Donald Miller. An address of welcome was given by Wilmer Gerdes. Two project reports of interest were given by Frederick Benson and Robert Stray; both boys having chosen the raising of swine as their projects, and both netting a neat profit in cash and a fine experience from the undertaking.

A short talk was given by Superintendent A. H. Lancaster, in which he touched on the value to the community and to the Dixon schools of having so well equipped agricultural department and such a competent instructor as Prof. John Weiss.

The Year's Work

Prof. Weiss was then introduced and gave a very interesting summary of the year's work in his department. He stated in part that during the year they had completed 55 projects. Sixty-six acres of corn had been raised by 12 boys as their projects; and had made a yield of 4403 bushels, or 66 bushels per acre. Even with the low price of the grain, and some other difficulties encountered, such as the white grubs, all but three of these showed a profit, the total net profit for the 66 acres being $138.46.

Five of the boys chose poultry as their projects and produced 422 birds, and 1399 dozen eggs with a net profit of $289.29. The poultry made the highest percent of profit this year of any line pursued.

Four dairy cattle projects were handled, using a total of eleven animals, with a profit of $345.87.

Beef cattle were raised by six of the boys, who handled seven animals producing 6360 pounds of beef, with a net profit of $104.03.

Swine Projects

Sixteen of the boys chose swine projects and handled 63 sows and litters which produced 92,682 pounds of pork at a total cost of $2571.38, and sold for $3955.43, leaving a net profit of $1384.05.

The grand total net income of all the projects handled this year was $3633.23. The following are the grand total net incomes for the past few years of all the projects handled: 1931, $4678.60; 1930, $4026.34; 1929, $3777.09. By these figures it is shown that during the years of higher prices there was not much more net profit made than in this year of low prices. This Mr. Weiss stated was because costs of production was now being cut, and greater economy was being practiced.

The department also leased an apple orchard and ran it as a class to raise money for the class which will be used to help students get started in their project work. This orchard was also used for experimental and demonstration purposes. The orchard netted a profit of $40.00. This money was invested in two thoroughbred Duroc sows and given to two boys for project work, they to return gifts to the class in payment for the sows.

Aside from these profits made by the boys with their projects, they won $497.00 as prize money at various fairs and shows where their projects were on display. At a sectional show held at Polo out of $1200.00 of prize money the Dixon boys won $319.00, by far the highest amount of any school in the section.

Trip to Kansas City

Melvin Pissel gave a very graphic description of the trip to Kansas City taken this fall by Prof. Weiss and four of his boys when they went to the national meat identification contest and won the national championship. The boys of the team were introduced.

Prof. Weiss Praised

J. E. Hill, state supervisor of vocational agricultural, was then introduced and gave a very pleasing talk of the value of studying this subject, even though the boy did not take up farming as a vocation. He was very emphatic in the praise of the Dixon school building, and equipment and on how fortunate the school is to have so fine an instructor as Prof. Weiss. He also stressed the large number of winning teams that this school had produced and the large number of state and nationally known men of prominence had been members of this department.

He finally finished his talk by stating that to show how good the Dixon school was in its agricultural department, in the whole state of Illinois there were 4298 acres of corn in projects by high school boys and the average yield per acre was 61.3 bushels; while the yield of the Dixon boys that had corn for their project was 66 bushels per acre.

A cornet solo was rendered by Robert Williams and another number by the Harmony Four after which the meeting was closed.

Mr. Weiss will conduct his farmers' short course as usual next Wednesday evening at the high school.

TUNE IN WOC-WHO

There, as in America, the e were vast empty spaces to populate, hostile natives to fight, rich natural resources to tap, boom towns to be built, opportunities for the daring and the footloose.

An outline of the story is contained in "Russia and Asia," by Prince A. Lobanov-Rostovsky, a Russian emigre who is now on the faculty of the University of California at Los Angeles. It represents a chapter in history with which most of us are totally unfamiliar, and the chapter proves an uncommonly interesting one.

Who are the "Russians"? An obscure Slavic race first seen on the slopes of the Carpathians a few centuries after the break-up of the Roman empire.

How they spread over European Russia, built an empire, suffered the shock of successive eruptions of conquering Asiatic hordes, made their empire secure and then spread out over Siberia, Turkestan and adjacent lands, using tiny armies of 200 and 300 men to conquer half a continent, makes most absorbing reading.

At present, the author believes, Russia is definitely facing the east. Despite superficial changes, he believes that the policy of Soviet Russia is not unlike that of the Czars. The Five-Year Plan, he says, will give Russia an enormous advantage in her eastward drive.

The current turmoil in Manchuria is probably the curtain-raiser to an incalculably important swing in world history.

PREFERS PRISON

Knoxville, Tenn. — Probation may look good to some law violators, but Bertha Davis, who pleaded guilty to violating Federal narcotic laws, would rather go to jail. Miss Davis was paroled, but she reported to Federal Probation Officer Swofford and asked him to sentence her. She had not violated the rules of parole, but she had no home or job and she was sure she would violate the rules. Swofford is trying to work out a scheme whereby Miss Davis will not have to rely on prison for support.
